Vocational scenario or context	Careers in esports events management are becoming popular and there is a lot of competition. There are exciting and new opportunities to work in events management, or even to set up your own event. As part of your own career research, you will explore what an esports event organiser does and consider your suitability for this role. Your research could include an interview with someone who has some experience of organising esports events, or similar.

Task 1	You will have to gather comprehensive research evidence into the role and skills of an esports event organiser. Your electronic report should include: ● details of the role and skills required to be an effective esports event organiser, including organising and setting up events ● a personal skills audit that measures your suitability for this role by matching your own skills to those skills required by an esports event organiser ● a careful consideration of your own skills, highlighting areas for development and how this might be achieved; you should identify the skills and areas for development that are the most relevant ● supported judgements as to what preparation and training you will need to undertake to support your career as an esports event organiser.
Checklist of evidence required	• Electronic report
